Web: Impact in less than 30 seconds

The average web site visit is less than 30 seconds; capture attention with quick, easy to read headlines. That's why a strategic plan for your website is essential. How will your target audience find you? Once found, how can we best capture their interest, and encourage them to learn more? Does your site offer a compelling and persuasive sales theme throughout? This planning should be done without consideration of the site's appearance – the goal is to develop the most effective function of the site, and let the form follow. Blitz Media Design will assist you with the strategic planning process and design.
